LEAD AND LUMBER INDUSTRIES TELL TROUBLES TO I.C.C.

Copper Operators Also Join in Appeal Opposing 15 Per Cent Rise in Freight Rates.

CALL PLIGHT WORSE THAN RAILROADS'

Loss of Markets to Foreign Countries, Closing of Plants Predicted If Increase Is Granted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The men of the lead, copper and lumber industries were enumerated to the Interstate Commerce Commission today to offset the request of the railroads for a 15 per cent rate increase.

Attorneys told the commission that the capital structure of the lead, copper and lumber industries was in a more precarious condition than that of the railroads. The railroads have based their appeal for increased freight rates on their need of revenue to maintain the value of their bonds and to enable them to refinance such issues as may mature.

R. E. Quirk, representing the dangerous metal industry, particularly lead and copper, told the commission much of the domestic producers' business was likely to go to foreign sources if costs were increased. The copper and lead producers, he said, paid the freight and shipped it on to the consumer.

Operations of lumber companies and smelters at present are approximately 40 per cent of normal, Quirk said. The price of copper is lower than at any time in recent years.

If rates are increased, Quirk indicated, the falling off in business would close more plants and throw more workers out of employment.

S. J. Wettrick, representing Western lumber interests and the North Pacific Millers' Association, said that the capital structure of the lumber industry of the Northwest was in a more precarious position than that of the railroads. Any increase in rates, he said, could destroy rate relationship in favor of Southern pine producers, relocating business and making it impossible to market Western lumber in the East.

"If the commission decides some increase is in order," Wettrick said, "we feel that it should be a flat increase and not a percentage increase. Regardless of what the commission decides, I think it should be exempt lumber."

Referring to the wishes of the Millers' Association, which is composed of manufacturers of flour, cereals and feed in the Northwest, Wettrick said any increase in the rates on flour would mean such shipments as now come East by rail would certainly go to other forms of transportation.

R. C. Fulbright, representing Southern pine interests, said every lumber producer's association in the country had shown a loss in operation this year. The proposal now before the commission, he said, would increase charges on Southern lumber $12,000,000 a year and possibly would force many manufacturers out of the business.

Promoters Spent $900,000 to Get New York Enterprise Under Way.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The Guaranty Trust Co. was appointed today equity receiver of a realty enterprise in which William Gibbs McAdoo of Santa Barbara, Calif., former Secretary of the Treasury; Henry H. Cotton of Los Angeles, and Joseph P. Day, New York real estate man, were interested.

The enterprise involved the purchase and development of 789 acres in what is described as the Jamaisca-Hillside section of Queensborough. It was inaugurated on Nov. 13, 1925, by McAdoo, Cotton, Day and 13 others who contributed between them $900,000 to get the project under way.

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 28.—Capt. John G. Murphy, Mobile, ship owner who was convicted yesterday of conspiring to scuttle the steamship Rose Murphy to collect insurance, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment and fined $5000 in Federal Court today. Notice of an appeal was given and he was released on $20,000 bond.

Salvadore Martinez and John G. Fulford, members of the crew of the Rose Murphy, who were indicted with Capt. Murphy and who pleaded guilty and turned State's evidence, were remanded to the Baldwin County jail to await sentence.

The Rose Murphy, on the way from the Florida west coast to Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of phosphate, went down in the Florida Straits in 1927.

VICTORY PARADE FOR CARDINALS TO BE TOMORROW

Team Returns With 101 Victories and 53 Defeats and World Series Begins Thursday.

FAN STARTS WAIT AT BLEACHER GATE

Seats for That Section to Be on Sale Morning of First Game—Standing Room Price $3.

With the Cardinals back home after making their best season's record of 101 victories and 53 defeats, St. Louis baseball fans today turned their attention to the victory parade tomorrow and the opening of the World Series against the Philadelphia Athletics at Sportsman's Park on Thursday.

Distribution of tickets to those whose small orders were accepted began at the Dodger street at 10 o'clock this morning and will continue until 4 o'clock tonight. The applications were chosen by lot and those entitled to purchase tickets were asked to appear at the box office today with certified checks, cashier's checks or money orders to claim their tickets.

Although seats had been assigned in advance, lines of eager purchasers were waiting at the office on Dodger street this morning and at the downtown office in the Kroche Building yesterday, when first seats were sold there. Purchasers yesterday were those who had ticket books and boxes during the baseball season and who had pre-purchased rights.

Resale Quiet.

About 200 persons were waiting when the six ticket windows at the park opened today, but within a short time the line had dwindled to small groups of purchasers, many of whom had brought signed notices for their friends and were buying reserved seat tickets for the series.

Except in the case of persons living at some distance from the city, the club is requiring the ticket purchaser to present his notification or have someone present it for him with his signature—at the box office during the proper time or the reservation is canceled.

So far the resale market is quiet. One broker said today that he would charge a regular 10 per cent commission and act only as a middleman. He said he had received many offers to sell tickets but none to buy and he expressed doubt that tickets would resell for prices equal to those of any of the three previous years the Cardinals have played in the series.

The next day I went to court, but, of course, there wasn't anybody to appear against me so I was dismissed. I hung around the house for a few days and then went to Beaver Dam.

While working at Beaver Dam, Chorak underwent an operation for the removal of one of his eyes, but refused to submit to an anesthetic because, he said, "I was afraid I might reveal my secret while under the ether."

Divorced persons who have been married by civil authority, however, may, under both canon, petition the ecclesiastical court for recognition and receive the blessing of a minister of the church on the union. They also, under a favorable decision of the ecclesiastical court acting through the Bishop, may retain communistic rights and may be allowed admission to baptism, confirmation and holy communion.

The canon as adopted by both the Deputies and the Bishops is agreed that ministers of the church shall not solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or wife of any person living in a state of sin or who has been divorced or separated by a court.

UNION ELECTRIC SEEKS TO BUY COMPETITOR

Asks for Permission to Purchase Laclede Power & Light Co. Stock.

Application was filed with the State Public Service Commission at Jefferson City today by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. for authority to buy control of one-fourth of the stock of the Laclede Power and Light Co., with the intention of eventually gaining control.

Laclede Power is Union Electric's only competitor here in the supply of electricity. At the volume of business it is said to be less than one-tenth of that done by Union Electric in St. Louis and only about one per cent of the total volume of Union Electric. Laclede Power and the Laclede Gas Light Co., sister utility, are controlled by the Utilities Power and Light Corporation of Chicago, while Union Electric is owned by the North American Can Co.

Union Electric would buy 333 voting trust certificates of Laclede Power for $715,817, or $214.06 a certificate, from an investment trust in Massachusetts. Each certificate covers one share of no-par value common stock. Laclede Power has 12,183 shares of this issue outstanding. The common stock is held by voting trustee under an agreement made five years ago. Laclede Power has only 10 shares each of preferred stock, all of which are deferred stocks.

The application was filed by Union Electric says that company owns one-half of the Laclede Power stock. Now Frank Boehm, vice president of Union Electric, said it was desired to obtain control of Laclede Power through purchase of more certificates in the opinion that the supply of electricity here should be concentrated in one system.

The application stated the purchase was in the public interest because it would bring about closer cooperation between the companies.

Laclede Power and Union Electric have been open rivals. When the Utilities Power & Light Corporation took over Laclede Gas Light and Laclede Power, it was learned that Union Electric had tried unsuccessfully to acquire Laclede Power. Directors of Union Electric have authorized the purchase of Laclede Power certificates.

The price of $214.06 a share offered by Union Electric indicated valuation of about $2,821,858 for Laclede Power. Much of the business done by Laclede Power is in the downtown district.

ST. LOUIS STUDENT KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS BRIDGE

SALEM, Ill., Sept. 23.—Joseph C. Gualdoni, Sesser, Ill., a student at the St. Louis University School of Dentistry, was killed last night and a companion, Ralph Page, injured seriously, when their automobile hit a bridge abutment on Route No. 12 near here. Page was taken to a hospital at Centralia.

Gualdoni was to have begun his junior year at the school of dentistry Thursday.

Gov. Murray Bars Special Session, OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 28.—Gov. Murray announced today there would be no special session of the Legislature to enact cotton and other relief legislation and voted on by the people would serve the purpose, he said, adding there was no hope for relief in connection with this year's wheat and cotton crops.

No reason was given for the decision.

At first close was the Clerk of Atchison County at 1. It had $462,473 deposited in the bank.

Second close was the Farm Bureau of Chilhowee, in Johnson with $61,073 in deposits.

RED BANKER DIES

SAFE IN CHURCH IS ROBBED; $800 ESTIMATED LOOT

Strong Box in Pastor's Office at Pilgrim Congregational Is Broken Open During the Night.

MINISTER'S DESK ALSO RANSACKED

Nothing of Value Taken From It, However—Burglars Remove Fingerprints From Combination.

The safe in the pastor's office of Pilgrim Congregational Church, 11 Union boulevard, was broken last night by burglars, who left the contents, several hundred dollars in cash and checks.

The burglars, who entered through a basement window, ransacked the desk of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. T. Stocking, but took nothing of value from it. They moved the small safe into another room and knocked off the combination, working apparently at their leisure, and removed the finger prints with towels taken from a washroom. They left behind the tools used in breaking the safe.

Tuesday's offerings for church expenses and benevolences, and Sunday school collections for three weeks were in the safe. Much of the money was in sealed envelopes, to be opened by the church trustees, so that Dr. Stocking was unable to determine the amount. On the basis of the average Sunday offerings, police estimated the amount as between $800 and $1000. The church carries burglary insurance.

WHAT KEEPS STUDEBAKER ON TOP?

Studebaker leadership is not a comet that passes, but a fixed star of continuous achievement.

Free Wheeling today is sweeping America, but Studebaker was making history long before it pioneered Free Wheeling.

Studebaker was first to make light Sixes when its price-class was fussing with Fours...first to foster large-scale production of quality Eights...first and still unbeaten in stock car records for speed and endurance.

Studebaker took the squeak out of your car with ball-bearing spring shackles!...It took the guess out of your gasoline with the hydrostatic gasoline gauge!...It cut the roar out of your carburetor with an effective carburetor silencer!

Thus every car carries somewhere the impress of Studebaker leadership. Why not buy the car that sets the pace for all cars?

DANGERS IN WAGE CUTS CITED IN RADIO TALKS

The Rev. Joseph Husslein and Robert W. Kelso Analyze Situation.

The economic and moral dangers of wage cuts were discussed yesterday by the Rev. Joseph Husslein, S. J., in an address broadcast by St. Louis University station WEW, and by Robert W. Kelso, director of the Community Fund, in the Community Forum broadcast by KMOX.

Kelso said that if dividends had vanished and all advantages were going to the working people, it would be time to cut wages to the point of safety to keep business "alive."

"But there are still dividends," he continued, "and those dividends, as usual, go to persons who would have something to fall back on for a living, even if they did not get the dividend. The working man has no such reserve. His wages are his dividends, and at the same time his capital—his all."

"To say, as it is reported to have been said from the White House, that the attitude there is neutral toward a reduction in wages, and that the only concern is that the standard of living should not be reduced, is just laughable. If the wage is everything the standard which stands for living can be broken when you cut the wage you cut the standard. That means simple enough, and that is in fact the case. It is no time for mad judgment as to whether U. S. Steel and General Motors, with all of the other large industrial units likely to follow, should cut wages; but it is time to be exceedingly careful in weighing all the equities of such action."

Our working population is in distress. It is disturbed in mind and becoming sore in its feelings. Any step further damaging to its welfare, that is not fully just in its every aspect, is unwise and dangerous."

The St. Louis University broadcast by Dean Husslein of the School of Sociology, touched the necessity, for national economic "health" and the security and self-respect of the predominant class of the population, that wage-earners, of not only a "living" but a "saving" wage. The address was based on the Labor Encyclical of Pope Leo XIII and the Social Reconstruction Encyclical of Pope XI.

"Basic in this entire question," said Dean Husslein, "is briefly the principle that every effort should be made to enable the father of the family to support himself, his wife and children, and lay up enough for future emergencies and old age. But for every woman worker at least enough must be provided through her individual effort to secure for her a decent, reasonably comfortable and entirely independent livelihood."

"The intelligent manager of any great concern," he added, "is aware of the value attached to a contented and devoted labor personnel, where strikes are unknown; expert men continue faithfully in the employ, and all work is done with precision, expedition and efficiency. To pay high wages for such results is to secure in reality the cheapest labor. Under truly skilled and benevolent management higher wages may mean more economical pay, lower prices and greater profits."

"I have not so far alluded to what many consider the prime argument for high wages, the higher purchasing power of the masses, and consequently the increasing demand for production. The lower the pay, the slower also the wheels of industry; the higher the pay, the more rapid their motion. What one hand pays out, the other may receive back with interest. High wages, in fine, do not connote high prices."

$6000 TEXAS BANK ROBBERY
Teller Kidnapped and Forced to Open Safe.

By the Associated Press
BORGER, Tex., Sept. 28.—The Borger State Bank was robbed of about $6000 by two men who kidnapped Roland Ruegeley, teller, and forced him to open the safe last night.

The robbers trailed Ruegeley and another teller, J. B. Castle, and two hours after the robbery they tied Castle and the girls and then returned to the bank with Ruegeley.

After looting the safe the robbers took Ruegeley to where his companions were held, tied him, and escaped. Ruegeley managed to work loose from his bonds and notify officers. One robber stood guard over the girls and Castle while his partner carried out the actual robbery.

MILK PRODUCERS' PRESIDENT
EXPLAINS STRIKERS' POSITION
Speaks at Holy Trinity Hall to Several Hundred Persons.

The dairy farmers' position in the milk strike against Pevly Dairy Co. was explained to several hundred persons, three-fourths of them apparently housewives, of the neighborhood, yesterday at Holy Trinity Hall, 1405 Mallinckrodt street.

Several priests yesterday announced a similar meeting, where representatives of the dairy and the farmers are invited to speak at p. m. today at St. Francis de Sales Hall, Grand and Ohio avenues. Similar invitations were made for yesterday's meeting, but the dairy was not officially represented.

President Tiedemann of the St. Louis Milk Producers said the strike was caused by the new Pevly annual contract, giving it arbitrary power to set its own monthly prices to farmers, and its refusal, alone of the larger dairies in St. Louis, to allow a representative of the farmers to check on weights and tests which affect their income.

Today's Room for Rent lists in the Post-Dispatch are being read in far more St. Louis homes than can be reached through any other St. Louis newspaper. These lists rent rooms quickly.

WOMAN KILLED, TWO MEN
OVERCOME BY MASH FUMES

CHIEF WITNESS
IN PEMISCOT DRY
PLOT CASE SHOT

By the Associated Press.
HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 28.—A woman was killed and two men overcome last night by a gas rising from a quantity of mash beside a still in the cellar of a home near here. The dead woman is Mrs. Meta L. Jones, 24 years old, and those overcome Stanley Jones, 22, a cousin, and Harold Ferguson, 16. The two young men had gone into the cellar to stir the mash and when they did not return the woman was immediately investigated.

The husband, returning home from an automobile trip, discovered the three unconscious forms in the cellar. The woman died a few minutes after being carried from the building but the young men quickly recovered.

The Coroner gave a verdict of accidental death.

MAN, AFTER 23 YEARS,
FREED BY CONFESSION

Served Nearly Half of Life in Prison for Crime He Always Denied Committing.

By the Associated Press.
CHESTER, Ill., Sept. 28.—Jesse Lucas, who spent almost half of his 50 years of life in the Menard State prison here for a murder he always said he did not commit, was enjoying freedom again today as the result of a death-bed confession of another man.

As has been told, George R. Pond, a farmer who lived near Decker, Ind., dying, confessed he killed Clyde Showalter, a young stock buyer 26 years ago, and this brought release for Lucas yesterday, after 23 years as prisoner No. 401.

The Illinois Board of Pardon and Parole freed Lucas to Mayor T. E. Wright of Mount Carmel, Ill., who let Lucas at the penitentiary gates and took him back to his home town where the Mayor said he would give him a job and the freed man "can make my home his home."

"Now I'm vindicated," Lucas told the Mayor as they greeted each other at the gates.

Lucas' mother, who died three years ago, almost ended her life in prison as a result of what authorities now consider a series of miscarriages of justice. The widowed mother was indicted along with her son and both were found guilty of killing Showalter, whose body was discovered floating in the Patoka River 26 years ago. She was freed, however, at a new trial obtained for her. Two witnesses, one of them a reformatory inmate, testified they saw Lucas and his mother kill the stock buyer and carry his body across the river bridge and throw it in the water. Lucas said officials "framed" him to solve the crime.

All the years he has spent in prison, Lucas was "a good prisoner," penitentiary officials said. A day laborer before he was placed behind the bars, Lucas worked for many years in the prison greenhouse.

CHICAGO MOVIE HOUSE BOMBED
Ninth Explosion Since Lockout of Operators.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A bomb, the ninth since about 100 independent theaters locked out their union motion picture operators, damaged the Music Box Theater, a neighborhood house, early yesterday and terrorized 200 occupants of apartments in the building.

There are 24 apartments in the building which houses the theater. None of the occupants was injured, but many of them fled to the street after the explosion.

WASHINGTON U. TOTAL ENROLLMENT 3480

Slight Increase Over Last Year's Total—Registration for Evening Classes.

Washington University has enrolled 3480 students in regular courses for the school year, 25 more than were entered at the beginning of the term a year ago. University officials had predicted that the business depression would not cut down the student body.

The enrollment in the various schools of the university follows: College of Liberal Arts, 1326; School of Engineering, 550; School of Medicine, 326; School of Fine Arts, 234; School of Nursing, 260; School of Business and Public Administration, 242; School of Dentistry, 205; School of Graduate Studies, 165; School of Law, 117. Of the total, 740 are freshmen.

While there was some loss of students who could not afford to continue in the university, this has been more than offset by the number who have come back for graduate work and those who have found more opportunities. The more noticeable gains are in the schools of engineering, graduate studies and business and public administration. In the last named school the increase is almost wholly due to the presence of 33 women in the courses on social work. There are 18 women in other courses in this school. Enrollment of women in other schools is as follows: College of Liberal Arts, 659; Fine Arts, 102; Medicine, 18; Architecture, 8; Law, 6; Engineering, 1-2; Miss Caroline Carroll of Webster Groves.

The proportion of men to women in the College of Liberal Arts has been increasing steadily for several years, until now there are 667 men, outnumbering the women by eight.

Registration in University College, the extensive division of the university, the evening classes in the evenings, the Saturday and Saturday morning, will be completed this week. So far, 373 men and 276 women, a total of 649, have registered.

PAY CUT ON LACKAWANNA

Officers' Salaries Reduced and Working Schedule Shortened.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The Lackawanna Railroad announces a reduction of 7½ to 10 per cent in the salaries of officers receiving more than $600 annually and a shortening of hours for all other employees, effective Oct. 1.

The new working schedule calls for a two-day layoff each month without pay, which, the announcement says, is equivalent to a wage reduction of 6-2-3 per cent.

'OLD PETE' ALEXANDER
STILL DRAWS CROWDS

But His House of David Team Loses Two Games to Negro Champions.

Grover Cleveland Alexander brought his bewhiskered House of David baseball team to St. Louis for games Saturday night and yesterday afternoon with the St. Louis Stars, leaders of the National Negro League. Alexander pitched the inciting of yesterday's game, which his team lost, 7 to 6, before about 3900 fans who filled the grandstand at Compton Avenue and Market street. The Saturday game was won by the Stars also, 6 to 4. "Old Pete," as he was affectionately known to his teammates when he was the Cardinals' leading pitcher a few years ago, seemed happy as he returned to St. Louis on the eve of the fourth world series here. It was Alexander who brought victory to the Cardinals in their first world series in 1926, when he ended the deciding game in New York by striking out Tony Lazzeri.

The right arm, deprived by age of the cunning which made Alexander a big league star for many years, is still good enough to keep the ball from the door. Alexander has turned down minor league offers, preferring to remain with the House of David organization which is reported to pay him $1500 a month.

The Stars treated him rather roughly yesterday, however, scoring a run in each of the three innings he worked. They found him for six hits, but slow fielding accounted for several of the hits.

The crowd gave him a good hand as he peeled off his old Cardinal sweater and stalked out to the pitcher's box with the old familiar gait. He snapped three balls to the catcher and was ready for the game. His first offering was a high hard one which "Cool Papa" Bell, the Stars' center fielder, led off for a strike and the crowd roared its appreciation.

The two games attracted many who followed Alexander's career in the big leagues. Saturday it seemed less than half of the crowd of 1500 were Negroes, and yesterday there were many white men and women. Saturday's crowd had to be content with Alexander's appearance in the coaching box, as the night was cold and damp and he decided not to pitch.

50 ST. LOUIS BUSINESS MEN
ON ILLINOIS GOOD WILL TOUR

Delegation Traveling on Special Train Begins Visit to Seven Cities.

A party of about 50 St. Louis business executives, representing 20 lines of commercial activity, departed today on a two-day goodwill tour of seven Illinois cities. The tour is being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce Sales Managers' Bureau to strengthen trade relations.

The party is traveling in a special train of the Illinois Terminal Railroad System. Stops were made in the forenoon at Carlinville, where the St. Louisans conferred with business men of that community, and at Springfield, where the visitors were luncheon guests of Springfield business men.

Afternoon stops were scheduled for Lincoln and Peoria and the delegation will remain in Peoria over night. Tomorrow the tour will continue with visits to Bloomington, Decatur and Clinton. A band accompanied the party to give a concert in each of the cities visited.

BOY SCOUT COURT OF HONOR
Special Awards to be Made at Session Tonight.

St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts will receive a Boy Scout charter at its fall Court of Honor ceremonial tonight at Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3627 Lindell Boulevard.

Thomas J. Keane of New York, national director of the Boy Scouts, will present the charter. Training certificates will be awarded leaders and merit badges, streamers, and other honors will be distributed. Nelson Coniff, chairman of the court, will preside.

SLOTSKY REFUSED TO POST FORFEIT MONEY, TAYLOR'S OFFICE CONTENDS

By John "Pepper" Martin
Circuit Judge Rosskopf this afternoon issued a temporary restraining order against the Police Department, Chief of Police, Board of Police Commissioners and against the State and City Boxing Commissions, restraining them from interfering with the boxing show scheduled at The Arena tonight.

"Dave Abad and Joe Ghouliously will fight their 15-round battle as scheduled, tonight at The Arena," declared Jerome F. Dugan, representing the Jackson Johnson Post of the American Legion, at noon today, following announcement from the office of State and City Boxing Commissions, Seneca Taylor that the fight would not be allowed to go on.

"There is no reason for stopping this fight as we have complied with all legal requirements," Dugan continued. "If the local Commissioner refuses to let us have referee we will bring them by plane from Kansas City. This fight and the entire program will be held as scheduled."

The boxers will present themselves to the city boxing commissioners at 2 o'clock to get weighed in. Continued on Page 8, Column 1.

The keynote of our program is confidence. I can say that, because that's the way we thought of anything but money, never a cent.

Small part will be worth.

And with a break or two.

October, we might be trying for our second straight

success over the Athletics,

of striving to avenge ou defeat.

We could have won yesterday. Remember the game in which Grimes won 5 to 2. The big break contest was in the seventh.

We had one out and one on. Grimes thought Douthit had broken through Boileigh slowed up just a bit and forced at second. Adams followed with a single that scored Grimes.

Douthit got third. Connie Adams came in and with he probably would have had a little hit. In that case, reached Frisch's line.

He had a big inning. Mind three runs in the inning would have knocked the upper hand.

Frisch also lost another five hits. I thought Burleigh pitched out of Mack's and still Grimes had nine. Foxx filled the bases when he was batted in and he was beaten 2 to 0. To win for Grimes if we did.

We didn't, though.

Pat Rooney Was Right.

"Tammany Allowed Drinking, Gambling in Its Clubhouses." Saturday night I made a call on a friend at Tammany Hall. And divined a secret I had on Sunday morning."

The man at the periscope says that if Mr. Wilkins paid Uncle Sam $1 a year rental for the Nautilus he ought to get his money back in the eliminations there.

Free Wheeling's success was due to the fine pitching of Vic Quaternik, drafted from the Hed Gooe club for the occasion. Quaternik was a Municipal League pitcher 20 years ago, found the cool weather to his liking, and let the Nickel club down with seven hits. Vic's battery mate was Jim McLaughlin, drafted from the Bemis club, since Ed O'Brien, Free Wheeling's regular catcher, was out of the game with a bad leg.

Free Wheeling assumed a two-run lead in the third inning, but the Nickel club scored one run in the fourth and two in the fifth to forge ahead. In Free Wheeling's half of the fifth, Cameron walked after two were out. Brooks tripped to score Cameron. Kraut singled to left, scoring Brooks and sending Free Wheeling back into the lead.

George Guinotte singled to left, second in the eighth. He held the middle sixth while Loeffler filled out. Weidner struck out. However, Billy Lyman singled Guinotte home for Omaha's last score. The final Free Wheeling run came in the seventh on Cameron's walk and Kraut's triple, his fourth hit in four times at bat.

There was no admission charge and a crowd of about 3000 witnessed the game.

source of work. They can give work or buy things which give work in manufacture.

"Business can spread out its available work . . . but, broadly speaking, it can't give additional work unless it can buy its products. It is your depression and mine, and when and how we get out of it lies in each person's power."

Gifford said 6,000,000 was the estimate "most generally mentioned" for the number of unemployed. He explained the total of jobs cannot be measured accurately, but that "each city, town or country can know its own problem accurately enough for practical purposes."

The worst problems are in the large cities, he said, which "nearly have the most accumulated wealth to meet the emergency."

"There is every indication that these great centers can and will take care of themselves," Gifford said, adding:

"If the public buys neither work nor goods it is the public that is indirectly discharging men." Gifford told the country in the first of a series of addresses on the winter of relief problem.

Both national radio networks were made available for Gifford's first public discussion of conditions since his appointment to direct relief work. The president of the American Relief Association, Dr. Charles C. Gifford, told the press conference that "this depression will not be ended by a panacea."

He advocated a four-point program of community planning to meet unemployment problems. It includes:

1. Appointment of state committees of leading citizens by the governors.

2. Organization of emergency committees in needy communities.

3. Determination by these committees of the probable unemployment loads and the development of ways to meet them by providing employment or relief.

4. Report to the state committees on plans of the local groups.

Gifford said the emergencies like the present one occur in this country every year. The depression is probably ought not to be a permanent organization to cope with it. He described the condition as temporary and best met by voluntary mass efforts of the people.

"Employers have already to an extraordinary degree," he said, "spread employment available in their own plants among their workers. Many have gone the limit."

"A high percentage of those gainfully employed are working full time, either on full wages and salaries or with reductions no greater than the decrease in the cost of living."

"They constitute . . . a main

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the practical principles of life. I will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER,

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Varying Values of Food.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In your issue of Sept. 8, Henry J. Tucker makes the statements that if an article is destroyed without the production of some other wealth to replace it the world is poorer by just that much, and that the use of luxuries such as beer, from a purely economic point of view, is destructive of the wealth of the world.

If by wealth is meant a material product, the people could not have any recreation or amusement, not even music, because people take from their earnings to pay musicians to give us music, a "concert" of sweet songs, pleasing vibrations of the air, art which is the fruit of nature or other tangible or material product.

Flowers also would be taboo, being merely beautiful and of fragrant or agreeable odor, that is, of a pleasure smell, though they are also of value in art and design and for their beneficial psychological effect. A good play, the drama, would be anathema; sculpture and art also. The intangibles lead man to a better, more perfect use of the tangibles in life, and are therefore of value.

The value of food is not dependent alone upon its high content of protein, fat, carbohydrates, etc., as suggested. Fruits are mostly very low in these substances, but are necessary for their anti-scorbutic and other vitamins. Lemons, for instance, have practically no food value, but explorers, deprived too long of fresh meat, fruit and vegetables and suffering from scurvy, well know their value, both as a preventive and cure. Vegetables and fruits are also required for their bulk. In the temperate and tropic zones man cannot confine himself to the highly concentrated foods alone and maintain perfect health. The idea that man cannot live without taking food in a little capsule once a day is a chimera. Bulk is required to maintain the form of the body. The degeneration or atrophy of the abdomen would convert man into a hideous thing.

Various beverages are a valuable adjunct to life, some of them being adjuvants to other foods. Beverages such as tea and coffee, and of the class known as soda or carbonated waters, including root beer, have little or no food value, yet the cooling effect of these is most cooling and of great value to the human economy from this standpoint. But each of the beverages has its own value, also its own limitations and disadvantages. No one suits every person under every condition or circumstance. Water has no nutritive value, though most necessary to all life. When we cool or refrigerate it, we add nothing to it. We actually take something from it, i.e., heat units. To do this requires fuel or power, machinery or equipment, and labor. But the cooling of the water, though expensive, is beneficial to health under many conditions, otherwise it must be considered of value.

Nothing is destroyed, except in the sense of conversion or change, when beer is made. In the germination of the grain, a peculiar substance known as diastase is formed, and this substance acting upon the starch of the grain converts a part of it into certain varieties of sugar. It is upon this change that the development of living from inanimate matter depends. The yeast acts upon the sugar, causing the fermentation of the beer, and the beverage consists broadly of a small percentage of alcohol, unconverted or partly converted, and more unconverted starch or carbohydrates, gluten or nitrogenous substance and other matters. The infusion of hops in it is tonic and sedative, or soporific, that is, moderately sleep-producing, which the small content of alcohol counter-balances, so that in itself it is a moderately stimulant, tonic, refreshing, light nutritive liquid. W. J. A.

For Return to Jeffersonianism.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I F Senator Reed should receive the Democratic nomination for the presidency, history would repeat itself in the party battles of the Andrew Jackson period. I venture to say the Jeffersonian-Jacksonian Democrats would experience the thrill of their lives in battling under the standard of Missouri's white plumed knight of Jeffersonian Democracy. Jacksonian rugged country. Senator Reed's election will convince any Missourian, who at heart is an individualist, that the time is ripe for a country-wide movement of the voters back to the fundamental principles of Thomas Jefferson.

As a Democratic leader, in such a battle of the people against centralization of government, governmental paternalism, monopolistic domination, class favoritism, dangerous domestic and foreign policies, etc., of the New Deal, Senator Reed does not need to worry, his white plume to Roosevelt, Ritchie, Baker or any other of the Democratic possibilities—for he will lead his army of voters with the same fine courage and straightforward honesty of Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Jackson, both fundamental Jeffersonians.

Missourians know that Senator Reed is a stalwart figure on the Democratic side, and as head of other Democrats will realize it as the campaign progresses. To those afflicted with the anti-Semitic propaganda, I would suggest a reading of Claude G. Bowers' three most readable and informative books on early American politics.

CAMPBELL CUMMINGS.

THE GOLD PROBLEM.

The suspension of specie payments by the Bank of England, followed by the action of Norway and Sweden in abandoning the gold standard, has given renewed impetus to the movement for an international monetary conference.

RUSSIA UNDER THE "NEO-NEP."

Soviet Russia, ever addicted to cabalistic coined words and abbreviations, operated for a decade under the "Nep," or New Economic Policy, enunciated by Lenin in 1921. This was a mellowing of the "wartime Communism" which had ruled the Soviet in the period of foreign and domestic strife. Lenin's program led to abandonment of barter by state economic bodies and resumption of business on a money basis, to extending of concessions to foreign capitalists, legalization of joint participation by state and private capital in enterprises, greater freedom to trade unions and other reforms which departed from the stern standards of absolute Communism. Now Russia has the "Neo-Nep," or Newest Economic Policy, as outlined by Stalin in his address last June. Its results are becoming more visible daily.

The enhanced standing of the non-Communist technical experts impresses the Moscow correspondent of the Manchester Guardian as a symbol of the new order. These persons now receive better pay and greater privileges than before, in recognition of their large role in the nation's development. Payment on a piecework basis is another important departure from the early principles, and has been extended to both factory and farm. Rewards for meritorious service now are granted by the state, and the individual thereby assumes more prominence than heretofore. Gradual abandonment of the rationing system for foodstuffs is indicated by the opening of stores where purchases are unlimited, though at extremely high prices. These will improve the living conditions of foreigners in Russia, and of persons receiving money from abroad. Pressure by the OGPU, or political police, has been relaxed, giving moderate relief from its notorious dictatorial and censorial practices.

All these changes are straws indicating a definite trend to the right, which many observers have long predicted as a consequence of Russia's industrialization. As the "Nep" made possible the opening of trade relations with many foreign countries, so the "Neo-Nep" may be expected to do even more toward breaking down the barriers between Russia and the outside world. Despite these abandonments of theoretical Communism, Russia's great achievement, the five-year plan, remains. The new advances toward democracy doubtless will make its fulfillment more certain. And they will serve to place the scheme on a basis whereby the pliant nations may view it as a model without fear of Bolshevik contamination.

JUDGES AND THE PEOPLE.

To agree with Dean Pound of the Harvard Law School that all our judges should be appointed and not elected is to declare that democracy is essentially a failure. Assuredly judicial posts should not be filled by men selected by self-seeking politicians. Neither should high offices in the executive branches of government. For that matter, the nomination and election of all officials should be removed from politics, in its uglier sense. It is true that elected judges are sometimes disappointments, but it is less true that appointed judges can give occasion for regret. The most distinguished American jurist off the Supreme Court, Chief Justice Cardozo of the New York Court of Appeals, holds his seat by election. Missouri recognized in the late Justice Walker a people's judge and saw that he stayed on the State Supreme Court from 1913 until his death. Illinois found such a jurist in the late Justice Farmer and kept him on his high court for 25 years. The people can do find good judges. We do not believe they are ready to yield a function so fundamentally a part of the republic.

THE LIQUIDATING DECADE.

Readers of the Post-Dispatch editorial page are familiar with the name of James Truslow Adams. His keen scholarship and trenchant comment have led us frequently to reprint his observations. In our opinion, Mr. Adams reaches a new height for incisive brilliance in his assay of the present in his new book, "The Epic of America." Here it is:

The story of our present decade must be briefly sketched. It may be described succinctly by saying that Harding had to liquidate the war; Coolidge had quietly to liquidate the scandals of the Harding regime; Hoover is now watching the liquidation of "Coolidge prosperity."

These 45 devastatingly truthful words tell the story of our national Government from March 4, 1921, until this very hour. Mr. Adams has achieved a classic utterance.

EGOTISM AND AUTO CRASHES.

An interesting inquiry into the psychological makeup of the reckless driver has been made by Dr. Paul Schroeder, Illinois State criminologist. Examining prisoners convicted of manslaughter with an automobile, he finds them to be normal persons, with no physical or mental deficiencies which would explain their crimes. Instead, it was a surplus of selfishness, egotism and disregard for others which caused them to be sent to prison.

Minor manifestations of how those traits are magnified when their possessor takes the wheel may be seen on our streets every day, and probably the charioteers of ancient Rome gave similar exhibitions. The driver who crowds another to the curb, dashes through a crowd of children or zips past a stop sign may behave like a perfect gentleman when his locomotion is physical. But place at his command a motor with the power of many horses, and he becomes ruthless. His latent egotism and selfishness, suppressed in his social contacts, expresses itself in wild driving. His inferiority complex vanishes in a speedy dash down the boulevard, in seeing pedestrains and traffic scatter before him.

Maybe Gandhi's costume, or lack of one, is to symbolize the fact that he wears no man's collar.

MR. GUEDALLA WRECKS A BUILDING.

There was tumult in politics, and an elegant gentleman with something of man-about-town sophistication was telling his beads of disappointment over lonely nuts and wine in the White House as his last dissolute presidential summer ebbed away. But Chicago clamored and clanked its brazenado as the first building of steel skeleton construction rose daintily to the stars and the skyscraper was born. Last week that building was crushed into debris with never a murmur of lamentation, with never a ribbon of rhetorical crepe to signal a landmark's passing. For the steel skeleton reigned but a fleeting hour compared with the centuries of timbered solidity, and reinforced concrete, discovered in the budding flush of German genius, thrust it into an oblivion as deep as that in which the motor car has buried the stanhopes and broughams and tall-hoys and jingling sleigh bells when the horse was king. The nine and 10 stories that dazzled a world for a decade bloomed into mistle heights which, in turn, have been reduced to dwarfdom by the step-off methodology that is writing the skylines of American cities in bewildering script. The age of wood, with its grace and warmth of beauty, is gone, and the dominance of steel and concrete is reading a prophetic requiem, perhaps as craftsmanship, under the ceaseless thrust of the machine, fabricates glass into blocks as massive as the eternal stones of Egypt. It was 47 years ago when Chicago flung the roof into the heavens which now passes into pulp for an Alhambra of commerce to rival the rococo presumption of Woolworth Tower and Chrysler's topless ambition and Empire State supremacy. Yet we may pause for a contemplative minute, perhaps at the solemnity and silent grandeur of the Mormon Temple, untouched by iron, unscarred by nail, which dim, mysterious, old China bequeathed to Salt Lake City by way of our St. Louis

SPEAKING OF DICTATORS.

Give Nicholas Murray Butler a dictator, every time. Dictatorships produce real leaders and enable nations to get somewhere. Look at Cromwell, look at Napoleon, look at Mussolini, at Lenin and Stalin. On the other hand, consider democracy. Democracy puts midriffs in the seats of the mighty. It elevates the fourth-raters, and men of ability go for naught. Such was the theme of the eminent scholar's message to the plastic young minds which faced him at the opening of Columbia University the other day. Far be it from us to presume competently to criticize his thesis, but it does need pointing out that of all the dictators since Cro-Magnon times, only five rated Dr. Butler's list. In the light of that, the fact that we have had as many as six really important Presidents during the last century, as he says, seems to us to give the advantage decidedly to democracy. We suggest Dr. Butler look up the batting averages of Dictators Huerta of Mexico, Primo de Rivera of Spain, Pilsudski of Poland and Ibanez of Chile. Our recollection is that they all hit under Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan.

BORN 300 YEARS TOO SOON.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

AN English surgeon has come out with the statement that Shakespeare's death resulted from complications of fever, typhus, typhoid paralytic, epilepsy, apoplexy, arterio-scleroses, oversmoking, chronic alcoholism, gouty, angina pectoris, rheumatic disease, malignant cancer, cerebral and locomotor atrophy. And to think that if medical science had known what it does today, he could have escaped them all by having his tonsils removed.

THREE LITTLE GIRLS' RE-OPENS THE SHUBERT

TO BE V. P. MA

Many Members of Municipal Opera Cast Here in Delightful Light Opera.

With many former members of the Municipal Opera company in the cast, "Three Little Girls," the lovely Viennese light opera which opened the season in Forest Park during the past month, came back to town last night as an indoor attraction at the Shubert Theatre. After a bad beginning—the company and scenery were late arriving from the East and the curtain did not ring up until 9:30 p.m.—the musical play was well presented and well sung, although only a handful of spectators were there to see and hear it, for apparently its drawing possibilities were exhausted by the 10-day showing last June.

Clifford Newdahl again sang the role of Hendrik Norgard, the Viennese youth who believes his sweetheart is faithless and who goes to Java to win a fortune. Later, for the play, you may remember, covers a period of 50 years, with three generations of the same families involved in the story—he returns as Hendrick's son Karl only to love and lose the daughter of his father's old flame. In the last of the three acts the course of true love finally runs smooth, and a good musical piece should. Mr. Newdahl was in excellent voice last night and was given a handsome reception by the small audience.

The three little girls, after whom the play is named, were delightfully played by Josephine Huston, Gretta Alpeter and Evangeline Raleigh, and other former Municipal Opera favorites in prominent roles were Connie Graham, Stephen Mills and Harry Puck. Many of the Forest Park players have transferred to this Shubert show which is on its way to Dallas as the feature attraction of the Texas State Fair.

While last night's presentation of "Three Little Girls" seemed small as compared to its showing on the great Municipal stage, it is a musical play really better adapted to an indoor theater and elsewhere, should prove a great success. A portable revolving stage patterned after the Forest Park affair, is carried with the play, and the musical shows should. Justice Van Devanter Ill.
LIONIA, Mich., Sept. 28.—Justice Willis Van Devanter of the United States Supreme Court was confined to bed here today with a slight illness at the home of his friend, Probate Judge Montgomery Webster. Mrs. Van Devanter is with her husband, who is 74 years old.

A REGULAR battlefield doctor keeps the President in physically good condition. Capt. Joe Thompson Boone, ordered to be obeyed by his patient, whether he be a President or someone of lesser rank. This small man, slenderly erect, dark and steady, serious eyes doesn't seem the type of person who could play the part of a taskmaster on occasion. But he can, and does, as White House physician.

Thus, when he thought that President Hoover should arise early in the morning to attend a meeting held around the White House lawn before including the world, the President did so. Fishing is about the only form of recreation for which Mr. Hoover has displayed a real love, but he "medicines" just the same.

YEET "Doc" Boone is far from being the serious-minded and exacting man of medicine. If a practical joke is perpetrated at the President's week-end camp on the Rapidan, usually it can be traced either to the doctor or Lawrence Richey, one of the White House secretaries. Junior Cabinet members who have been guests at the Rapidan can testify to that.

Doc is a general favorite with newspaper men who cover the White House. There are few of them he hasn't taken in when they were ailing.

His two decorations—the Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service Cross—were earned under shell fire at Belleau Wood.

AS FAR as is known, Capt. Boone had no political ambitions, though his job in the past has served as a stepping stone to higher things. President Wilson's physician, Dr. Cary Grayson, became a nationally known figure through a White House assignment.

There was Dr. Sawyer, who came from Marion, Ill., to attend President Harding. He became general officer of the Medical Reserve to the veterans, later turned to veterans' hospitalization work.

Perhaps the case of the late Major-General Leonard Wood is the most outstanding. As an army doctor he served as medical-military aid to President McKinley. It was at the White House that he met Theodore Roosevelt. From this association came the famous Rough Rider command in the Spanish-American War that ultimately led Wood almost to the presidency itself.

"Doc" Boone, who was recently promoted from the rank of Lieutenant Commander to Captain in the Navy, is Capt. Boone as long as he serves at the White House.

RICE AND EGGS WITH SAUCE

A Meat Substitute Dish With Vegetable Flavors.

To three cups of hot cooked rice add six eggs which have been granulated in three tablespoonsfuls of butter. Add a little water until the whites and yolks are firmly set. Mix all together, pile on a platter and serve with the following sauce:

To one cup of canned tomatoes, seasoned with salt and paprika, add green pepper, minced; three-fourths cupful of chopped celery, and a teaspoonful of grated onion. Heat and serve over the rice-and-egg mixture.

Butter Scotch.
The children will like this whole-some candy. Take two cups of brown sugar, half a cup of butter, four tablespoons of molasses, two tablespoons of water, two tablespoons of vinegar. Boil until it hardens when tested in cold water and pour on buttered tins. There are many ways of serving spaghetti, varying from the familiar baked-with-cheese recipe to the more elaborate dish which is said to have been the favorite dish of the famous tenor, Caruso.

Spaghetti salad is good also, and spaghetti cooked with meat, tomatoes and onions in a meal in itself. Spaghetti-Caruso.

Cook $\frac{1}{2}$ pound spaghetti until tender and drain. Peel $\frac{1}{2}$ pound fresh mushrooms and cut in small pieces. Cook $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter for 10 minutes, then add mushrooms, salt and 1 cup of chicken stock. Cooking gently for 10 minutes more. Add cooked spaghetti and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of cooked chicken livers and return to fire just long enough to heat thoroughly. Serve with grated cheese.

Cupped Spaghetti.
Cook 2 cups broken spaghetti in 2 quarts boiling water until tender and drain. Make a sauce of 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 cups milk and 1 teaspoon salt. Take from stove, shaved $\frac{1}{2}$ pound sharp flavored cheese, shaved very thin and a few drops of tobacco sauce, and stir until cheese is melted. Place spaghetti in buttered baking dish in alternate layers with cheese sauce, sprinkle buttered bread crumbs over top and make in moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Spaghetti and Hamburger.
Cook, drain and chill one small package broken spaghetti. Mix spaghetti and three tablespoons grated cheese with a little French dressing. Then add the following: One green pepper cut fine, three tablespoons butter, one-half cup celery, one-half small can pimento, one small grated onion and two chopped hard boiled eggs. Mix this with spaghetti, cheese and mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce.

Cook-one-half pound spaghetti until tender and drain. Brown one-half pound hamburger and one small diced onion in small amount of fat. Add one small can tomatoes and simmer half an hour. Add one cup grated American cheese and cook 10 minutes more. Then heat spaghetti in meat mixture.

Baked Chuck Steak.
Have two chuck steaks cut $\frac{1}{2}$ inches thick. Place in a roasting pan and cover with a thin layer of sliced mild onions. Add a thin layer of green pepper rings, season with salt and pepper. Pour over steaks one medium sized tomato to which $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon Worcester sauce has been added. Bake uncovered for two hours. Add a little boiling water from time to time if necessary. Serves four persons.

Authorities said they suspected Chinese influences were behind the rioting.

Police Patrol Hongkong and Kowloon After Rioting; Nine Slain.

By Associated Press.

HONGKONG, China, Sept. 28.—

Police with riot guns and orders to "shoot without warning if necessary" today patrolled the streets of Hongkong and Kowloon, the island opposite, as the result of anti-Japanese riots and demonstrations.

Nine were killed and many injured. Six of the deaths were in one family, when a mob of Chinese stormed the residence of Shimizuro Yoshishita, a Japanese, in a Kowloon suburb, Yashishita, his wife, brother, two sons and a nurse were killed. Only a 3-year-old child was spared.

Police and soldiers charged the mob with fixed bayonets, killing Ten were arrested. A Chinese child was killed in a riot at Hongkong.

Japanese residents of Hongkong and Kowloon were segregated in school buildings for protection and Chinese mobs turned their attention to Chinese shops selling Japanese goods. Many stores were wrecked. Most Japanese stores and shops were boarded up several days ago.

Authorities said they suspected Chinese influences were behind the rioting.

Provisional Government Reported to Be Formed in Kirin, Manchuria.

TOKIO, Sept. 28.—Perry H. Patch from Mukden says a provisional government for Kirin Province, Manchuria, has been formed there with Gen. Hsi Sia, former chief of staff of the Kirin provincial army, as Governor.

Ministers of War, Finance, Industry, Home, Public Works and Education also were named, together with a commissioner of police.

In Mukden, the report says, the People's Association organized with the Chinese Nationalists for Manchurians" with the aim of making the entire state independent of China proper and having a parliamentary form of government.

Separatist activities were reported from Manchurian sources to Tokyo Saturday and authorities here said two such movements had been officially frowned upon by Japan. The Tokio Government, after military occupation of cities in Southern Manchuria, disclaimed any territorial ambitions toward the Chinese state.

Caramel Sauce for Waffles.
Caramel sauce will make a nice change for waffles and should be made several times before using and set aside to cool. Put a cup of sugar in a small pan and stir on the fire until brown, carefully watching to avoid burning. Add a cup of boiling water and simmer for 15 minutes.

Cherry and Pineapple Cocktail.
Drain one cup each of canned cherries and crushed pineapple, add two sliced bananas and the strained juice of one orange. Chill and serve a spring of mint dipped in powdered sugar with each glass of punch.

Cucumber Boats.
Serve the salad in scooped out cucumber boats and arrange the lettuce around it like waves.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1931

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Total bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange today were $16,237,000 compared with $8,221,000 yesterday, $16,621,000 a week ago, and $12,561,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $120,933,000, compared with $28,853,312,000 a year ago and $2,176,604,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99-24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in today, giving sales highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted.

CHAPTER TEN.

HERE was a little silence. Fanchon felt her heart lift on a sudden surge of hope. She was not Evelyn. She was dead. You robbed the dead of nothing. Fanchon was alive. If she could be to this woman what Evelyn would have been; if, with her own longing for affection, for home and for safety, she could even be more than Evelyn would have been, would that not be counted, perhaps, in her favor? Evelyn, she knew, from the little she had seen of her, was less concerned with her emotional relationship to her aunt than what that aunt held out to her in the way of promises of ease, luxury, money—chance perhaps to marry well. With those things Fanchon had very little concern. What she wanted and what she was prepared to give in return was something very different, something into which money and material things did not and could not enter.

She spoke, stumbling a little over the unaccustomed form of address. "I—I want to make you happy, Aunt Jennie," she said in her low, charmingly husky voice, "as you have made me already."

A little silence fell between them. And in it Fanchon vowed to dedicate herself to this woman's service, whatever it might be.

"Presently—"Here we are!" Mrs. Cartairs said with a smile. "I'm putting you in one of the guest rooms to be done over for you this summer."

"Here" was an apartment on upper Fifth Avenue; a penthouse apartment overlooking the park and the reservoir. A man servant opened to them and Mrs. Cartairs said, "my niece, Miss Howard, Jameson."

Jameson, an elderly person, seemed genuinely moved. He made Fanchon a curious, stilted speech of welcome. Fanchon smiled at him, gently. She realized then that all her servants adored Jameson. It was easy to see why. "Jameson," explained Mrs. Cartairs, leading the way in, "has been with me for many years and so is one of the family. I brought him up from the country to look after us for a few days."

THE apartment seemed enormous to Fanchon. She caught glances of a huge dining room, and music room, on one side, living room and library on the other, all opening off a square hall. These rooms, explained Mrs. Cartairs further, all opened upon a terrace and Fanchon could see through the long French windows flowers blooming and small trees gay chairs and couches and awnings.

"I keep the apartment in livable shape," Mrs. Cartairs went on, "as Collin runs in and out all summer and must have a place to stay."

She hesitated and began again, her clear skin flushing. "Collin . . ." she went on, "is up North. You may have wondered why he isn't in town to meet you?"

"No," said Fanchon with perfect truth. "I hadn't wondered at all." "I wrote you," the other woman said, "about his attitude. But I would rather explain more fully."

(She took Fanchon into a lovely room on the second floor. It had a big connecting balcony at the end of the hall from me." Mrs. Cartairs told her. "Your own room, when it is ready, opens on the gallery and next to mine."

A middle-aged woman was waiting in the room. "This is Emma," Mrs. Cartairs told Fanchon, "she will look after you."

She had done so already. The bed was turned down, the windows open to what cool air there was. A sheer nightgown and a negligee and slippers lay nearby.

"I guess at the size," Mrs. Cartairs said. "You're tall; than I thought, but it will be nice to have some little frocks for you before we go down to the island and with the minimum of discomfort. You wrote me, you know, that you had very little."

FANCHON flushed in shame for Evelyn Howard, who could pack her trunk to come east and write to her aunt that she "had very little." Had Fanchon been in her place!—she would have gotten along with what she had and said nothing out of sheer stubborn pride. She said now, "Oh, but I didn't mean—I can manage perfectly well with what I have."

She wondered a little wildly just what clothes the trunk would contain. Evelyn, as she remembered her from shipboard, had rather run to frills and turbaned and cloven-toed shoes and such material lots of them. Fanchon's own tastes were more expensive yet simpler.

"Never mind that now," Mrs. Cartairs said quickly, "you get undressed and into a hot tub. Then you climb right into bed. I'm having my own doctor come and look you over, after your dinner."

"I'm perfectly all right," Fanchon protested, "please don't bother me. Really, Aunt Jennie!"

"I want to be sure," the older woman told her, smiling. "You're to have a light supper on a tray and I will have one with you. Then the doctor. And tomorrow we will talk."

She left the room after a word to the maid. The little straw suitcase had been brought up and was on the canvas luggage stand. The maid moved toward it.

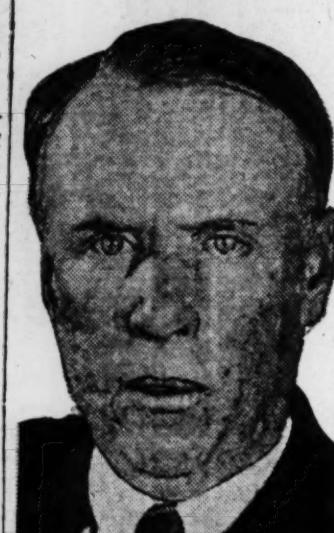

"Don't unpack it," Fanchon told her. "There are plenty of my own in there. It must be returned."

"Very good, Miss Evelyn. May I run your bath?" said Fanchon.

There had been plenty of serv-

SINCLAIR LEWIS.

her central characters Timothy Hale, a struggling young author, who later achieves monumental success, and Susan Brooks, later Mrs. Timothy Hale, who is proud of her family heritage. It would always Susan, who felt she never put on airs. When a dinner party is given for the important people, to introduce the bride, she appears in a black satin and tulle gown, with rouged cheeks and red lips and a low back, so that the "Main Street" folks are rather taken aback. But Tim had previously resented what he considered her supercilious attitude toward the expected guests, and she had wondered: Was he really a small town under the skin, didn't he like the small town, and like Susan Brooks Hale was to wonder on that often in her life with Tim.

Susan Brooks was frequently taken aback at the actions and habits of Timothy Hale. She was still further embarrassed, even angered, after she was Mrs. Hale. Timothy is tall, somewhat "gangly," awkward, with yellow hair (Lewis has red hair), and a fondness for not doing "the right things." Such as, for instance, appearing in the wrong clothes as Susan looked at clothes, or not sending her flowers, and liking ida, where they were happy. But then Timothy suggested they visit his parents in a small town in Ohio. Timothy appears to have put on airs, which annoys Susan, who felt she never put on airs. When a dinner party is given for the important people, to introduce the bride, she appears in a black satin and tulle gown, with rouged cheeks and red lips and a low back, so that the "Main Street" folks are rather taken aback. But Tim had previously resented what he considered her supercilious attitude toward the expected guests, and she had wondered: Was he really a small town under the skin, didn't he like the small town, and like Susan Brooks Hale was to wonder on that often in her life with Tim.

From Ohio to California by automobile, and making friends on the Pacific Coast with that type of people Lewis tells about in his books. Timothy Hale seemed to like them, to enjoy their company, which bored Susan, and he made copious notes about them. Then a son was born.

Timothy, Susan felt, was interested in the child only in a minor way, his chief interest seemed to be in writing. And at last he wrote a best seller, which brought him to Andre.

That particular episode, of the departing husband and the present lover, is also used by Lewis in "Dodsworth," one of the coincidences that adds to the idea that perhaps—Lewis, Dodsworth and Hale are pretty much the same persons.

The Hales returned to New York, with their respective loves left behind. Susan, who remained longer abroad, on a second trip, was able to separate from Hale when his publishers cabled she was needed to help him finish a novel. She found Hale drinking heavily, more heavily than he had before at a time when she had tried to stop it.

Lewis writes:

"It's so lovely," Peggy said.

"That I wish sometimes I could live like this."

"Wouldn't they be startled if someone could show them a moving picture, a plane or an automobile?" John exclaimed.

They took a little nap then, and, evidently, as they slept their pilot came for them and took them home, as they awoke in their own beds.

It is, of course, possible. Mrs. Grace Hegger Lewis drew entirely from her imagination in writing "Half a Loaf," yet it must be admitted, if she did, that it's strange the marital life of the Hales should dovetail so closely with that of the real Hales.

Grace Hegger Lewis is a magazine sub-editor, when aspiring to authorship, wrote a phenomenal best seller, was always traveling, was acclaimed in Europe, had one son and was divorced by his wife for incompatibility. Further, in commenting on her book, Mrs. Lewis said an author's first book necessarily drew much from the author's own life.

Grace Hegger Lewis is a man of letters and also at the courtesies paid her not only as the wife of an author, but as a pretty and intelligent woman. Nobility appealed to her; Timothy declined to dress for dinner.

Mrs. Lewis does not, on the other hand, make Susan Hale like him.

Her faults as well as her virtues, the scarcely needs to say. The careers of Susan Brooks Hale and Timothy Hale, the chief characters, are entirely too similar to the careers of Grace Hegger Lewis and Sinclair Lewis to permit any conclusion other than that much of the novel may have been drawn from the Lewis marriage.

It may have been Lewis' book, "Dodsworth," which told of Sam Dodsworth, an American manufacturer whose wife flirted, was snobbish, and had no interest in Sam's business affairs, that prompted the subject matter of "Half a Loaf."

Readers of the book got the impression that much of the picture of Frau Dodsworth, the wife, was drawn from Mrs. Lewis.

The former Mrs. Lewis has as type of which Lewis writes.

But Timothy, during their visit to Rome, and Susan slipped him.

Nevertheless, he continued his friendship with the girl, taking the author to dinner, and, it seems, to his wife for incompatibility. Further, causes Timothy to expositate: girls off and on, even though she was not kissed men, she was a fool. But the quarrel passed over.

It was Susan's turn to default on the marriage vows, so she became quite attached to an Italian archæologist, who made love most romantically; far more so than Timothy Hale of Bannerman, Ohio. So Susan remained behind in Rome for a while, with the charming An-oliver and green polka dots with a sleeveless jacket of plain green. A matching hat is of woven green braid with a side quill attached.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN
By Mary Graham Bonner

Shepherd-Wandering.

The time had been turned back ever so far and the children found that the scene had changed, too, and that they were far over on the other side of the world.

Walking over a very high hill, John and Peggy saw many shepherds and their gentle sheep. There, too, were the families of the shepherds, and there were horses, too.

The people were carrying tents and packing their belongings.

"Where are you going?" John asked one of the children.

"We are going to another valley where the grass is better and there we will put up our tents and stay for awhile."

"I believe I know what they're called," John whispered to Peggy. "They're the very early nomads, which means just about the same as wanderers."

Peggy was so proud of John.

They wandered along, too, following the shepherds and their families.

What a wonderful experience this was—with the time turned far back!

John and Peggy paused as the shepherds and their families stopped and put up their tents, making their homes right in the valley where there was nothing at all around them except trees and grass and a running stream.

"It's so lovely," Peggy said. "That I wish sometimes I could live like this."

"Wouldn't they be startled if we could show them a moving picture, a plane or an automobile?" John exclaimed.

They took a little nap then, and, evidently, as they slept their pilot came for them and took them home, as they awoke in their own beds.
